Keynote: Rural Health Equity through the Lens of Social Well-being

Carrie Henning-Smith, PhD, MPH, MSW, Associate Professor, Division of Health Policy and Management, University of Minnesota

This session will provide a broad overview of issues in rural health equity, including rural/urban differences and intersectionality within rural populations. This will be done using introductory content on rural/urban and within-rural differences in health and health care access for specific populations. The presentation will then provide a deeper dive into social well-being in rural areas to illustrate broader points about rural health equity and structural drivers of health.

1:30pm – 2:30pm Rooms 302-305	Breakout Sessions I
Room 302	The ABCs of Value-Based Care (VBC) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Becca Hayes, MD, MEHP, Founding Executive Director, The Center for Supporting Community Health • Theresa Jennings, DNP, FNPC, Founding Executive Director, The Center for Supporting Community Health This session will provide a foundational overview of the basic concepts of “value” in healthcare delivery. Participants will learn about the principles of the HCP-LAN Alternative Payment Model Framework as a pathway for payment reform and a foundation for measuring progress. A review of the Framework – with real-life examples – will highlight the importance of value-based care and provide guidance on how your health center can accelerate transformation.
Room 303	Transforming the Mindset: Using Data to Address Population Health Status and Health Equity Anjali Deshpande, PhD, MPH, Clinical Associate Professor, University of Iowa, College of Public Health This session will provide an overview of how health care organizations can use data to address population health and health equity. We will discuss relevant population health frameworks, expand our perspectives on health from the patient level to the population level, and identify how health centers and clinics can lead change in their communities for greater impact and long-term results.
Room 304	The Intersection of Race and Health Equity Joshua V. Barr, Raising the Bar, LLC Cities and counties around the country have begun to declare racism a Public Health crisis. Even the CDC has publicly declared racism as “a serious threat to the Public’s Health” here

	in the United States. But recognizing something as a crisis and understanding its origins and, more importantly, doing something about it are not the same things. In this session, Joshua V. Barr of Raising The Barr, LLC will discuss what is health equity and how we can get there so we can move towards a system of health justice where we repair the historical damage that has been intentionally done to impoverished and non-European communities here in the United States.
Room 305	Rural Health: Child and Maternal Health Panel <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Moderator: Bill Menner, Executive Director, Iowa Rural Health Association • Stephanie Trusty, RN, BSN, Nurse Clinician, Iowa Department of Health and Human Services • Ebonie Bailey, CD (DONA), Founder, Iowa Black Doula Collective • Megan Aucutt, Program Director, Healthy Birth Day/Count the Kicks • Dr. Amy Jochims, Family Physician/OB, Avera Medical Group Spencer Increasingly in small towns and rural areas, OB and maternal/child health operations are closing their doors. Faced with workforce shortages, lower patient volumes, limited reimbursement and soaring liability costs – some rural hospitals and clinics are choosing to get out of the business. But not everyone! A panel of experts and providers will discuss innovative approaches to child and maternal health in rural areas. From policy strategies to care delivery solutions, this discussion will focus on a key issue facing rural Iowa.
2:30pm – 2:45pm Concourse	Break and Exhibit Hall
2:45pm – 3:45pm Rooms 302-305	Breakout Sessions II
Room 302	Value-Based Care 201: Engaging in Value Based Care Through Advanced Payment Methodologies that are Starting to Focus on Vulnerable Populations and Health Equity Craig Hostetler, Consultant, Hostetler Group If value-based pay (VBP) were easy, it would have been fully implemented a long time ago. However, FQHCs are still predominantly paid fee-for service (FFS). What’s getting in the way of successfully aligning payment to support FQHCs care models focused on improving cost, quality, access, and health equity? This session will present and discuss: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The primary goal of payment reform (and the only one that really matters) should be to support better care for patients and populations served. • Why VBP is so difficult to implement in general, but particularly for vulnerable populations. • Key barriers that can get in the way of aligning payment reform with practice transformation. • What capabilities FQHCs need to be successful in VBP. • How primary care capitation can work with value-based efforts. • How COVID has increased the focus for pivoting VBP models to support vulnerable populations and health equity. • The opportunity for health centers to align VBP with their evolving care model to support the needs of the populations they serve.
Room 303	The Health Data Utility & How Data Sharing Impacts Care <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Jaime Bland, CEO, CyncHealth • David Baker, Vice President, Chief Information Officer, CyncHealth A public health data utility (HDU) is a comprehensive and interoperable health data infrastructure is critical to inform and support data-driven innovations in health systems and state health programs that gives healthcare organizations the power to connect the

	dots across all points of patient care. It’s more than sharing data between providers—robust health data utilities empower patients, providers, and their care teams to work together for better health outcomes, lower costs, and thriving communities. The increasingly complex healthcare ecosystem (physical, mental, and social care) creates a demand for state-level information aggregation and insights and information sharing across the broader ecosystem, all while ensuring the privacy and safety of the patients/citizens. A robust HDU provides the opportunity to utilize data to provide these insights with analytics that impact care at every level.
Room 304	Communities Collaborating: Using a Cross-Sectional Equity Lens <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Henny Ohr, Executive Director and Co-Founder, Ethnic Minorities of Burma Advocacy and Resource Center • Destinee Woodris, Planned Parenthood of North Central States • Gisella Aitken-Shadle • Max Mowitz, One Iowa • Luana Nelson-Brown, Iowa Coalition For Collective Change • Louis Fountain • Caleb Knutson, Senior Planner, Mid-Iowa Planning Alliance Health equity is broader than connecting people to resources; we also must address root causes and problems across sectors. This panel will discuss how healthcare and public health professionals should consider partnerships and collaboration outside of healthcare to meet health equity needs. Each panelist has experience in areas such as economic stability, education access and quality, healthcare access and quality, neighborhood and built environment, and social and community context. Topics to be discussed include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • How they are addressing inequities across their work • How to address social determinants of health (SDoH)—conditions in which people are born, grow, live, work, and play • How we can focus on upstream approaches to equity (framing it within SDoH) • How to address upstream challenges and conditions of poverty: no money or jobs; no quality childcare; inferior schools; unsafe neighborhoods; unstable housing; no social or legal support., etc. • How to work to break down silos in equity work • How different areas can support health equity and how healthcare/public health support equity in other areas
Room 305	Behavioral Health in Rural Iowa: A Discussion on the Issues, Observations, and Innovations <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Moderator: Deb Kazmerzak • Sue Gehling, Owner, Classroom Clinic • Angela Schindler-Berg, Mental Health Technology Transfer Center (MHTTC) • Peggy Huppert, Executive Director, National Alliance of Mental Health (NAMI) Iowa • Becky Shelton, Director of Crisis Services, Infinity Health • Isaac Hooley, Licensed Psychologist and Behavioral Health Specialist, University of Iowa and Private Practice Join us for this panel discussion with a variety of subject matter experts who will share their perspectives on behavioral health needs in rural Iowa. Youth suicide, opioid overdoses and fatalities, and social isolation are just a few of the growing behavioral health concerns. This session will focus on the needs and disparities, resources available, and approaches underway to address these behavioral health concerns and access issues in rural communities across Iowa.
